Hamilton Eggs has achieved SQF 2000 Level 2 Certification. We are proud to join only one other Michigan egg processor who reached this level of certification.

SQF is an acronym for Safe Quality Food, and is recognized worldwide as part of the Global Food Safety Initiative (GFSI). GFSI began with the auspicious goal of allowing buyers the confidence of knowing that once a vendor reached certification status, then the business is qualified to be accepted in every global market. While SQF is designed as a food safety program, it also covers product quality. This feature is unique to a certification program of this type.

SQF is an elite program which gives retailers and food service providers an utmost level of confidence when choosing a manufacturer, processor or distributor. The SQF Certification demonstrates the excellence that Hamilton Eggs represents in establishing and executing the processes that ensures the food safety and quality of our products.

Our organization's food safety and quality management systems are part of an internal system to guarantee that the highest standards of food safety and quality are met. The system provides checks for human safety, food safety, quality, inventory control, and internal audits that verify system effectiveness, continual improvement, identifying best practices and meeting customer requirements. Every employee is accountable to play a role in the success of these systems.

Meeting the customer demand for the highest level of quality and food safety is vital to the success of food processing companies. This level of achievement offers customers the credible assurance of consistency in the product. It allows for increases in efficiency, greater employee awareness and improved customer satisfaction.
